Dr.-Ing. (des.) NINA PAWLICKI

SHORT CV

Nina Pawlicki has been a teaching and research associate at the Technische Universität Berlin since 2013 - previously with the Habitat Unit and since 2017 at the Natural Building Lab. She became a guest professor in the Postgraduate Degree at BASEhabitat, University of Arts and Design Linz and completed her doctoral thesis 'Agency in DesignBuild' (forthcoming 2020) in 2019.

Since 2009, when she participated in CoCoon's DesignBuild-Studio 'Praktikumsseminar Mexiko' as a student, her practice, research and teaching are dedicated to the DesignBuild methodology. Within her work she is facilitating intercultural, hands-on and community-based projects on the interface between academia and non-academia. As part of various collectives and institutions she is seeking to develop contextual, sustainable and locally appropriate strategies and built prototypes fostering inclusive and diverse living environments.

Nina studied architecture at the Technische Universität Berlin and the Pontificia Universidad Católica de Chile. She graduated at TU Berlin as a 'Diplom Ingenieurin für Architektur' in 2011. As part of an international consortium she co-initiated and co-directed the development of the online platform dbXchange.eu within a research project funded by the European Union from 2013- 2016. As an architect, researcher and teacher she was involved in building projects in Mexico, Jordan, Mongolia, Germany and Colombia in her role as a project initiator, coordinator or director. She also has a wide range of experiences from her time working as a freelance architect for various architecture offices.
